THE MONTEVIDEAN CRISIS.

Montevideo is perhaps the most remarkable spot on this continent for the sudden intensity of its troubles; changes the most solemn occur with such rapidity and such succession that only in the newspapers of the period are those events chronicled which in other lands make up history. It is not necessary to be a very old River Plate resident to remember when Commander Wells held the Custom House and a few English bachelors barricaded Vanderwyde's studio, or Cranwell's botica. A generation has hardly grown to manhood since two revolutions succeeded in a single day, and the ships are still sailing on the high seas, whose captains established at O'Gorman's ship-chandlery a species of Government House of their own, where the political events of the day were discussed in English, possibly leaving greater mark on the counter where the masters sat than on the country where the events transpired.

The bathers who frequent Pocitos pass in the tram the surviving earthworks of a fort, every sod of which is a soldier's sepulchre. Yet who thinks now of that siege which held for so many years that it rivalled even Troy for duration, and many of whose Homeric officers are Bolsa brokers to-day.

We are led to these remarks by the extraordinary course which Montevidean affairs have taken within the last week. Politically the country is as quiet as Schleswig Holstein, but financially it is as capsized as Egypt; within a single week discounts have risen from 5 to 13 per cent, exchange has become 'impassible,' the banks refuse all business, exporters are brought to a stand-still with bales in every barrace; the ships in the harbor can obtain no cargo, even the saladeros on the Cerro are stopping killing, and the only perceptible business going on is bathing at the Pocitos.

The immediate cause of all this is the Government project, which embodies so many measures that people have taken fright at the bare possibility of any one of them being carried out. Yet, as the law has now passed both Houses, and the business has been hatched in London, all the opposition of the two private banks will amount to little, if the money to make the steps be forthcoming. The law now passed authorizes the Government

To start a National Bank.

To start a Mortgage Bank

To make a port

To unify the Oriental Debts.

It is hardly necessary to dwell on the magnitude of these great measures, which assume a still greater importance owing to the crisis caused by the banks, which restrict the trade of the country to a dribelling commerce in towels and bathing drawers.

The starting of a National Bank is hailed by many as the grandest move in the country's history. Orientals say that Buenos Aires owes everything to its Provincial Bank and its paper dollar, and although in the new law there is a special clause that provides against the possibility of "curso forzoso," still no one in his senses believes that a Montevidean National Bank could long exist without it. And it is the conviction that this National Bank will saddle upon the country an inconvertible paper currency, which provokes now the same opposition which 7 years ago defeated Don Andres Lamas and his transient paper emission.

That the Montevidean market has more money than its legitimate business requires is apparent from the fact that, at certain seasons, the banks there have to send up their funds to find employment here, and none of the Montevidean banks allow interest in account current to depositors; nevertheless when the busy season sets in there is a howl raised about the scarcity of money, "Acceptadores," of produce, it seems, cannot obtain in Montevideo the same accommodation as in this market, and a man may buy up in the camp and bring into Montevideo several thousand hides or arrobas of wool upon which he can obtain no advance from the banks so long as the produce is in his possession, and until passed into a special deposit of the bank, and hence it is that the new port scheme has for one of its chief aims, special warehouse deposits, wherein all produce or merchandise stored can be pledged on the store keepers' receipt to the banks for advances.

The unification of the Oriental debts is certainly a most desirable scheme, and they say one which will secure a gain to the country of 8 or 9 millions of patacones, one half of which may indeed be well spared to those parties in London who have aided, fomented and scheduled the programme and who now find the money to carry it out. One fourth of the capital of the new National Bank is to be set aside for the creation of a Mortgage Bank, which is so notoriously wanted in the Mount, that beautiful quintas on the Paso Molino and Union Roads are offering for a mere song, and real estate in the Mount has for many years past been a species of dead estate, an asset without value and a property only useful for taxation purposes.

The foregoing are the salient points of the project which has brought about the present severe Montevidean crisis, whose intensity has been somewhat lessened by one or two of the leading German houses entering the market a few days ago, and discounting 'conformes,' which, in the ordinary course of business should have been done by the banks. This new departure by the houses opened the eyes of the bank managers to the consequences of a still further pressure, and the banks have resumed discounting at 13 per cent paper which a week previously they would have been glad to get at 4½ or 5. The great respectability of the people in London who are represented as the concessionaires of these projects, is a guarantee that the interests of the country, even in the hands of a London syndicate, will be as safe as under the present system, whose agents are tyrants and whose success is financial crisis.

LONDON LETTER.

(From our own Correspondent.)

RICHARD WAGNER.

February 14, 1883.

Richard Wagner, the composer, is now added to the list of distinguished men who have lately succumbed to death and its remorseless ally, time. Wagner was on the eve of completing his seventieth year, but none of his friends seem to have anticipated that his end was approaching. He died yesterday at four o'clock in the afternoon at Venice, and apparently without much warning. His death must have been telegraphed immediately, because all the London papers of this morning have obituary notices of the deceased composer's career, but no particulars are given as to the immediate cause of his death. We may, perhaps, hear that he died pen in hand, still weaving the dissonances which, without doubt, have caused more discord in the outer world than harmony has been ever known to do before. They say that in the history of the world musicians were first worshipped as gods, then tolerated as bores, and finally prosecuted as vagabonds. Wagner's history reverses the process. He was first despised as an imbecile, secondly, combated as a dangerous lunatic, and, finally, worshipped as a god. Musicians are not gods, nor are they vagabonds. Much the same may be said of Wagner. He was too intellectual to be thoroughly a musician, and there was too much music in him to be purely intellectual. His theories were in general admirable. His music was deficient in instinct. At middle age, when most other musicians have attained the pinnacle of their fame, Wagner was still discussing with himself whether he meant opera or drama. He finished with the compromise known as "music-drama," which has failed to please wholly either the dramatist or the musician. He was, nevertheless, the greatest light in the musical firmament since Beethoven. Now that it has set, jealousies and animosities, as well as unreasoning worship, will cease, and gradually Wagner's place and relative magnitude will be accurately mapped amongst the constellations of genius. With posterity his works only will speak for him. Whilst he himself was still living his powerful intellect, his brilliant literary ability, his immense energy, his arrogance, battled for Wagnerism. That he lived to conquer, to see himself bowed down to by the paltry scribes who would know only their own ritual and their own gods, was his well-won glory and consolation.

Wagner, like Beethoven and Goethe, was a free-thinker in religion, whatever his religion may have been, and in politics he was a democrat. In other words, his mind was speculative and yearned for perfection and for ideal, and was dissatisfied with commonplace routine and academic recipes. That his mind, withal, was not symmetrical or soberly attuned, is obvious in his music, in which not only was the ideal never attained but never fixed. The force was palpable, and so too was the effort. His music lacked the calm strength of a magnetic and never-changing attraction in one direction. He was not a born musician of that calibre, for which his genius in other respects has justly gained him the credit. He was, however, born to be great, and the name of Richard Wagner will be heard of centuries hence, when other great names may be only known to the historian. The reason is, that he has made, like other great reformers, a special mark in his era. It is often asked—is the music of the future to be like unto Wagner's? We can all venture a guess, ridiculous as it may be, on that subject of prophecy. I, for one, should venture to say no! Wagner has rather closed an old era than initiated a new one. As a musician, far beneath his prototypes, he has carried the modern polyphony of Bach and Beethoven to the limits of the realm of harmony.

Beyond Wagner is discord, or complete change. What that change is to be none can attempt to prognosticate, but a fellow-worker of Wagner's, in an humbler sphere, Gounod, has just told us the change will be a return to simplicity. It is not impossible that, under the supposition that what is now called "absolute music" may fail to please our descendants—all the future resources of science and mechanical genius, as well as of the musical art of our era, the traditions of which will be preserved, will be concentrated on a retoration, in accordance with the ideas of coming centuries, of the drama of the ancient Greeks. For that the theories of Wagner have prepared us, but his music in form and spirit was Teutonic-Gothic, and anything but classical, in a generally artistic and non-musical sense of the word. Aristophenes would have ridiculed his Nibelungen, and the wits of a later Athens would have tittered at his Schopenhauerisms.

Richard William Wagner was born at Leigsig on May 22, 1813. He went through the usual curriculum at the University of that city, where his father was a register of the courts. Law, philosophy, painting and the drama, rather than music, first attracted the young aspirant's attention, and his musical education, when he finally took to the profession, was not very complete. He had written at twenty years of age a symphony, which, a short time before his death at Venice, he remembered with regret, as the score had been lost.

His earliest operas, such as "The Fairies" and the "Novice of Palermo," were mere reminiscences of Weber and Marschner, and are not counted amongst his published works. His career commences with "Renzi," commenced in 1839, but interrupted by the idea of another opera, the "Flying Dutchman," which occurred to him during a stormy voyage from Riga to London, on his way from Russia to Paris. In the latter city the wary managers offered to take the libretto of the "Flying Dutchman," but declined the music. Nearly dying of starvation in Paris he afterwards returned to Germany. It was not until 1842 he was able, as musical director at Dresden, to get his opera, "Rienzi," performed at that city, and with some success, which led in the following year to the production at the same theatre of the "Flying Dutchman." This opera failed completely at Dresden, and afterwards at Berlin, but in 1843 it was produced with great care at Cassel, by Spohr, who wrote to Wagner and encouraged him to persevere. These two operas end his first style. They were succeeded by the Tannhausser, 1845, and the Lohengrin, 1850.

An apparently long interval intervened before Wagner commenced his third and last style with "Tristan und Isolde," in 1865, followed by the "Nibelungen Trilogy," completed in 1876. But, in the meantime, whilst finishing the early part of the trilogy or tetrology—as it really comprises four dramas—the "Rheingold," "Walkure," "Siegfried," and "Gotterdammerung"—he wrote the comic opera, the "Meisterringer," Shakesperian in its humour, and a satire both musically and dramatically filled with the sentiments of ordinary humanity, and differing entirely from his other works. Indeed, it is at present impossible to follow chronologically the working of Wagner's mind, as he was accustomed to throw aside his work and labour at long intervals at various subjects of composition. Perhaps the most remarkable of all Wagner's vagaries is in his last production, "Parsifal," where the moving spirit of the harmony is the old liturgical music of the Roman Church, and where, under the guise of the chivalry and romance of the early history of modern Europe, he has parodied—say the imbeciles—he has reproduced, with a significance only known to himself, some of the most solemn events in the Ministry of our Saviour.

It was a singular chance that the great champion of Teutonic music should have drawn his last breath in Venice, the seat of the Venetian school of art, of Titian, and of Benedetto Marcello, and the city where his great Italian contemporary, Guiseppe Verdi, first changed, in his "Simon Boccanegra," his own style more in accordance with the teaching of Wagner. Verdi has since followed up the example in "Aida," and has rewritten "Simon Boccanegra," and has so altered it from our Buenos Aires reminiscences of the opera some years ago, that it now ranks amongst the first works of the Maestro of Busseto. The Germans have now learned to appreciate Verdi, and to see that with more of the musical faculty, but intellectually of a different calibre, he was, in his way, and independently working on the same lines as Wagner.

THE DUBLIN TRIALS.

CAREY'S EVIDENCE.

James Carey, according to his statement in the witness-box to-day, has been over twenty years connected with the Fenian Brotherhood. When, early in his statement, the well-known name of Thomas Brennau, formerly secretary of the Land League, was mentioned as having for a year or so been secretary of the Brotherhood, the interest of the audience was aroused considerably, and when, later on, the name of Mr. P. J. Sheridan (Mr. Parnell's pacificator-general of Ireland) the interest became still more intense. Some other names, familiar to those who passed through the Feuian movement in 1867 and the subsequent amnesty movement, were also mentioned—notably those of Thomos Brennan, James O'Connor and John Nolan—the latter for years the most active spirit in the whole proceedings. The funds appear to have been always at a miserably low ebb while the only organization was the organization of the Fenian Brotherhood—an organization which, by all accounts yet given, did not while it was purely Fenian take any cognizance of outsiders, and held "courts-martial" only on "informers."

Indeed, it is obvious from Mr. Carey's statement—and in this respect, at all events, it is confirmed by the evidence of the informers already examined—that the Brotherhood had but a precarious footing in the country, and was, in fact, on the verge of extinction at the time that the "inner circle" or assassination society was formed. Up to November, 1881, when this "new departure" took place, the society does not appear to have been in the receipt of any funds from outsiders, and to have been entirely dependent on the petty twopence a week from the members. But from that time—from the time that a "Mr. Walsh" came over (from the North of England, the witness believed), and proposed the formation of the new organization, which was to "make history," by removing all the tyrants from the country, there was no lack of funds. Walsh handed over 50 sovereigns on his very first visit, and subsequently large sums in notes and gold were furnished, and Carey was told on one occasion by "No. 1," a gentleman who appeared a little later on the scene, that "there was no limit" to the funds, and he might have £1,000 if he required it. Whatever amount of credence people may be inclined to give to the view which Carey and some of his associates took of the matter—namely, that the funds came from the Land League—there will, no doubt, be a general concensus of opinion that there was no good reason why at that particular period the Fenian factions in America should have taken a sudden fit of generosity, and that the organization which supplied the funds so lavishly, whatever may been its identity, was a home, and not a foreign, organization.

Well, the Inner Circle was duly formed in November, 1881, with Carey, Curley, James Mullett (the publican), and Edward M'Caffrey as its leaders. They were furnished with two names that had been selected by the London "Heads." Mr. Forster, who got precedence, and Earl Cowper, who was then Lord Lieutenant.

The "Irish Invincibles," as the new body was termed, lost no time in going to work, for in the first week of December, 1881, they were already out in the Park, endeavouring to "make the acquaintance" of Mr. Forster and of Mr. Burke, whose name they, of their own notion, added to the list of the doomed. It is, perhaps, a consolation to learn on such good authority that the total number of the "Irish Invincibles" in Dublin did not exceed about thirty of whom something like five-sixths are now accounted for by the men in the dock and the men who have turned approvers.

If Mr. Carey's identification is correct, he was introduced in the Angel Hotel to "Father Murphy," alias Mr. P. J. Sheridan, of Tobbercurry, at an interview at which "Mr. Walsh" and Daniel Curley were also present. At this interview Sheridan was disguised as a priest. Sheridan's movements at times baffled the ingenuity of the detective police. He stated that he was going down to the country to establish a branch of the new organization. In the following February Sheridan, again disguised as a priest, met the witness and others in the Midland Hotel. They complained to him that arms which he had promised had not been sent, and he promised to remedy the complaint. He also suggested that Mr. Clifford Lloyd, and "men like him," should be placed on the list for "removal." The arms were shortly afterwards forthcoming.

A woman, whom Carey was told was the wife of Frank Byrne, the secretary of the Land Confederation of Great Britain, came to his house one morning at half-past eight o'clock, bringing with her a rifle (slung round her neck by a chord), two revolvers, and about six knives, together with 4,000 rounds of cartridges. Ten days later she came again with a like consignment, save that there were on that occasion only four knives. He distributed the weapons, keeping one of the rifles for himself—the one produced in court.

The next person to come on the scene is a gentleman whose name the witness never ascertained, but whom he says he would know if he saw him, and who signed himself "Number One."

The witness then described the several attempts to assassinate, or rather the efforts made to get an opportunity of assassinating Mr Forster. His narrative in this respect was very much a repetition of that of the informer Farrell. On one of these occasions, when they were waiting for Mr Forster in Brunswick-street, the thoroughfare leading to Westland-row Station, there were ten of the 'Invincibles' on the spot armed with six or seven revolvers and some knives. On another occasion they watched for Mr. Forster's departure for four successive evenings. On the last of these nights, when Mr Forster actually did leave Ireland, some of the party went up on the railway platform, but Mr Forster did not arrive in the carriage. There were only his wife and a young lady in it. Had he been in it, added the witness, 'he would not be alive now.' 'Number One' told them that Mr Forster would not return to Ireland, and as Lord Cowper had also gone they turned their attention to Mr Burke. With this view they were in the park on the morning of the 5th of May expecting to meet him on his way into town, but they missed him. They were again in the park in the evening to the number of about twenty, and again they missed him. Next morning Carey came across a Mr Burke, brother of the late Under-Secretary, and therefore 'the wrong man,' as the witness expressed it. Indeed Mr Burke's appearance was not sufficiently known to any but one of the gang, a man named Joe Smith, who worked in the Castle. Smith was got hold of in the afternoon of the 6th of May by Carey, and they, with Joe Hanlon, at 10 minutes to 5 o'clock left Parliament-street for the park, Smith, in Carey's opinion, not knowing what was about to occur, and knowing only as he believed that he was taken there because he knew Mr Burke's appearance. Carey and Smith sauntered about the Polo Ground looking at the polo match until Curley came up, and administered what may be taken as a reproof to them for their want of vigilance. The other men had arrived on the scene in the meantime, and had gone further on than where Carey and Smith were standing. Eventually Mr Burke and Lord F. Cavendish were seen approaching. Carey got on the car, gave the signal, the waving of his pocket-handkerchief, drove up to where Brady and the others were, and told him to mind that it was the man in the grey suit. Asked what he was to do with Smith, Brady replied "Tell him to go to hell." And then Brady, having also added that he (Carey) was not wanted there, the witness turned back towards the cab which was in waiting, and got into it; not, however, until he saw the two gentlemen meet their assailants, who, as a car was just passed, allowed them to pass through their ranks, but immediately doubled round on them. Looking back a second time he saw Brady put his left hand on Mr Burke and strike him down. That was all he saw, he added; but in answer to counsel he proceeded to supplement his narrative by the narrative given to him the same night at nine o'clock by Daniel Curley and by the account given to him an hour later by Joe Brady. There is a grim humour almost in Brady's annoyance and excitement" when he found that Lord F. Cavendish did not run away, but when Mr Burke was attacked turned round and struck Brady with his umbrella, exclaiming, "You ruffian!" and there is a ghastly horror about his going over, "after he had settled" Lord Frederick Cavendish, to Mr Burke (whom Tim Kelly had been "settling" in the meantime) and cutting the deceased gentleman's throat. On the following evening (Sunday) Joe Brady, in the presence of Carey, "No. 1," and Curley gave a complete history of the affair in McCaffrey's house. At a subsequent "meeting" the knives were produced, and it was proposed to destroy them, but the witness 'thought bad of destroying them,' as he 'wanted to send them to the exhibition.' Carey, it should be added, had been rather an active member of the Irish Home Manufacture Association, which claimed to have been the principal agency in the promotion of the exhibition. At one of the meetings of that association, when it was proposed to pass a resolution condemning the Phœnix Park murders, Carey, who was in the chair, said they should condemn outrages, and suggested the passing of a resolution to that effect—a resolution which was understood to be adopted, although at a subsequent meeting the fact was questioned.

ROSARIO.

(From our Own Correspondent.)

23rd March.

The town of Santa Fe, the "Sleepy Hollow" of this flourishing Province, has remained almost stationary during the rapid development of every other part of the state. The progress of the numerous colonies knocked in vain at the gates of Santa Fe for admittance. The commerce and the Colonists clamoured for facile means of communication, but the Governments, with larger revenues than any province except Buenos Aires, were deaf. Sleepy Hollow had only one thought, one motive to eat, drink and be merry, having probably heard that Sardanapalus had said that something of that kind was the only aim of life.

In these difficulties the colonies bethought them of leaving the town to its fate and selecting another point d'appui. The branch of the Parana that runs past the town of Santa Fe makes a deep bend to the West, and where it turns South is joined by the Salado. At this point the port of Santa Tomé was made, shortening the distance to the colonies, and avoiding the morasses that surround Sleepy Hollow, and that the Government never had the public spirit or even the common sense of interest to improve and render transitable. The port of Santo Tomé has taken the business from the old town; a few enterprising men have raised their store-houses there. The activity of industry is noticed in every direction. There are elevators, machines, presses and immense deposits for grain, which is shipped in vessels that lie close up to the steep bank, and when loaded, if of small size, float to the main river by Coronda; but, if they are large, they have to retrace their way past the port of Santa Fe, and out into the Parana by the tortuous 'Riachuelo.' This is of course a great inconvenience and an extra expense for the shippers; but it has to be submitted to, for such have been the foolish municipal trammels to the trade with the colonies, that the farmers abhor the very name of Santa Fe, and would never go near it could they avoid doing so.

The fact is evident, however, that the port of Santa Fe is totally inadequate to the increasing wants of the agriculturists. Santa Tomé, after all, is only a makeshift. The network of rivers, low lands and swamps lying between the high lands of the interior and the town will always be an immense drawback, particularly with our system of governments in which public works do not form a part of the programme. But even in the supposition that cause ways and bridges should be made, or even a railway be built, the port itself of Santa Fe must always remain one of the worst on the river. The true port for all the province of Santa Fe is undoubtedly Rosario, the head of navigation for large ocean-going vessels. The railway required is one intersecting the Central Argentine, say at Cañada de Gomez, and running north through the centre of the province longitudinally, and thus piercing all the colonies, allowing them all to ship their produce directly to the Port of Rosario, where the farmers would get the highest price for their wheat, &c., and where centralizing the grain export in one spot, fleets of large steamers and sailing vessels would offer every facility to shippers.

The Standard is about the first to throw light on the great Santa Fé Loan that has been in the process of hatching in the obscurity of the secret sessions in Sleepy Hollow. The intelligent public were somewhat exercised by the mysteriousness which surrounded the negotiations, and rumour took all kinds of Protean shapes. The press, in ignorance of facts, wrote fancy articles; but the commercial community, remembering the secrecy with which the Murietta arrangement was carried through, and the astounding sale of the Loreto lands at $800 the square league, and the details of neither operation yet known by the public, the commercial community, I repeat, awaited in fear and trembling some new coup d'etat that would not redound to the interest or credit of the Province. But, to be candid, on this occasion there might have been good reasons for secrecy. The loan is principally for the Bank. Mr. Casado, in the presence of the curso forzoso, and with the circulation of the Bank at a great discount in the market, saw himself surrounded with perplexing difficulties in the operation of conversion, and naturally enough desired the negotiations to remain secret, in order to allow the paper gradually to approach par, and so prevent undue speculation and mercantile perturbation. The paper has risen in value, but as yet certainly not to the extent that Mr. Casado probably expected; and the operation of conversion, in the event that the loan be an accomplished fact, is still surrounded with difficulties.

The paper has been stationary for a few days, notwithstanding the apparently favourable termination of the loan negotiation. The notes are redeemable in Bolivian silver, but as there is little or none of this commodity, it may be presumed they will be changed for national type fuerte convertible notes at the present value of the vanished Bolivian. The par value of this money on the basis of which the Provincial Bank issue exists, is 42 half-dollars to 16 dollars gold; but this money is at 9½ to 10 o/o discount on the above par value; and the paper is still from 6 or 7 to 8 o/o below this. Should the Bank commence the conversion at once, the result would be disastrous for all its debtors, while its creditors would have reason to rejoice greatly. There would be a loss and gain on either side of a very serious nature, and Mr. Casado, no doubt, has desired to mitigate the trastorno as much as possible. This, added to a deal of wire-pulling, keeps up the financial difficulties of the moment.

The latest data about the loan are what the Standard has given, with the addition that it will be optional for Messrs. Hale and Co. to increase it from five to seven millions. The saints forbid their taking advantage of the clause. If the Bank and the State together can manage to scrape up sufficient to do the service regularly of five millions, it will tax them to the utmost for the first few years. They were never able to serve the Murieta loan of £300,000, and the Government was obliged to sell its last league of land, which, with its original capital, mostly absorbed by the Government, and now to be repaid (?) will give our banking institution a free capital of upwards of two millions of fuertes, without including the metallic on hand which will amount to half a million more.

LATEST FROM AYAQUCHO.

Ayacucho, March 20th.

Dear Sir,

As I think you will consider of great public interest the event which is about taking place in this town, almost unperceived by the rest of the Province, and knowing your love for everything in the way of progress, I venture to send you a few lines with a slight description of the 'locale,' already bought by the Sociedad Rural of Ayacucho. It is a splendid quinta well planted with trees of all sorts, and within fifty yards of the railway station, and has splendid accommodation for any amount of stock that may be sent for show or sale. It is barely three months since the idea was first started of forming a Rural Society, and already we have taken up some three hundred shares at 500$m/n each, which have been partly expended on the splendid site acquired and in building the galpones, etc, necessary for the first show, which will take place on the 1st, 2nd and 3rd of April next. The galpones cover some 900 or 1,000 metres of ground and are nearly 1½ square in length, with a plentiful supply of alfalfa, water and everything necessary for the reception of stock.

D. C.

THE WOMEN OF CYPRUS.

THROWING OFF THE YOKE AND CLAIMING THEIR INDEPENDENCE

Nicosia, the capital, is undoubtedly the town containing a larger proportion of Turks than any other part of Cyprus. The Turkish women there are certainly beautiful and very numerous, and although they were obliged to conform to Moslem regulations during the Turkish rule, they have kicked over the traces since the British occupation. When Cyprus was Turkish the women were Turkish in every respect. Now, however, all is changed. The Turkish woman, knowing that she can no more be punished by the religious authorities, whose power ceased the day the British troops first put foot in the island, has openly thrown off the yoke and claimed her independence, and with a vengeance too. Turkish husbands, fathers, brothers and friends are frantic with despair at the turn affairs have taken, and should a Turk come here from any other part of Islam he would not believe his own eyes, for this is the very first time and place that "the thing," as the Faithful call the women, has dared to act in direct opposition to all that is dear to Mahometans. Women belonging to the harem can now be seen at all hours of the day and night in the streets and on the ramparts of Nicosia, retaining their feretzes, but not covering their faces with yasmaks—at least the pretty ones do not. If, however, the harem beauties would content themselves with simply walking about with uncovered faces, husbands and brothers would not have much to complain of, but unfortunately this is not all. They talk to the Christians and walk arm-in arm with the English officers, and even with the soldiers. They give coffee parties to which gentlemen only, and they Giaours, are invited, and instead of receiving their visitors in the selamlik part of the house, where all men should be received, they receive them in the harem quarters, and when their husbands or other relatives come home they are shocked with what they hear and rush to the harem to find the door closed against them and to be told that they must have made a mistake in coming to the sacred female entrance, as according to Mussulmen usages, which they so much love, their place is in the selamlik. I saw them sitting at the cafés smoking and drinking raki! Actually drinking. Fancy a drunken Turkish woman! Surely the world is coming to an end and Mahomet's wife Ayesha must be turning in her coffin. "Take a seat, sir," says the caredgi, or proprietor. I stare at him in dismay and feel certain that I am in a dream and squeeze the arm of the friend who accompanies me, telling him it must be a dream. "Dream be blowed!" says he; "wait a minute"—which he has hardly said when a barrel organ starts up "Orphee aux Enfers," and the hanoums (Turkish women) dance—actually dance—and not alone, but with Tommy Atkins, and Tommy Atkins of the lowest type. They understand the music, they know the dance; but what is this? The cancan! Is this the Mabille, abolished in Paris to be transplanted in Cyprus? By Allah! but this verily cannot be true. But say what I will and think what I may, there they were, and there, I understand, they can be seen at any time. Every Turkish woman in the island is suing for a divorce; which the husbands are only too glad to grant, and if the Turks themselves ever expect to get wives or a harem again, they are very much mistaken, unless they search for them among the Christian population.

I have lived in Mahometan countries all my life, and this is the first time I have met the emancipated Turkish woman, and after a careful study of the subject I have arrived at the conclusion that the harem inmate is only waiting for a chance to put an end to harem life, and if the British occupation of Egypt continues for any length of time, and the religious authorities lose their hold on the female population, good-by to harems, and through them to eunuchs and to slavery.

EDITOR'S TABLE

The ceremonies of Holy Week were brought to a close yesterday in the usual solemn manner. On Thursday and Friday the attendance in the churches was, especially at night, the largest we have ever seen. On both nights the crowd in the Cathedral was enormous, and devotion and decorum were alike hard to preserve: the noise of talking (we hardly like to write laughing), the fluttering of fans, the 'frou-frou' of dressess and the scraping of thousandsof feet, rendered the preacher's words inaudible even under the pulpit, and reduced the sermon to a dumb show. High Life patronised San Ignacio and the Jesuits' Church more than any other. The Papal Nuncio officiated in the latter named. Although we have seen more gorgeous toilettes in former years, it is calculated that the City of London, Progreso and other fashionable 'tiendas' sold 10,000 new dresses during the week; a very stiff business, when it is remembered that ladies consider 2,000$m/n the absolute minimum for anything 'fit to wear' in the way of a dress, while the bonnet minimum is, we hear, 500$m/n, with a rising tendency.

We deeply regret to announce the death of Madame Rodriguez (née Brasch) wife of Col. Rodriguez in command of the troops at Rio Cuarto and San Luis. Madame Rodriguez was married in Flores about a year-and-a-half ago, when President Roca acted as 'padrino' on the occasion. She died in her first confinement, to the inexpressible grief of all who knew her. She was attended by her mother, Mrs. Brash, who went up specially to San Luis to be with her during her confinement. The demise of this lady will throw some of the principal families into mourning.

Early on Saturday morning a gentleman who was riding along the Flores Road, with his little son on a 'petizo,' was arrested and taken to the Juzgado for violating the police rules, as it appears no one is allowed to go out riding on Holy Saturday morning before 11 a.m. The gentleman in question protested he was going to church, but the policeman said he should have gone on foot.

The drought in parts of the camp, we regret to say, continues. Yesterday we had a visit from a subscriber just in from Zarate; he describes the state of the camps up there as truly shocking, and in the Capilla del Señor there is not a single flock of sheep or a cow left in the whole district; meat from the Corrales has to be taken out to feed the people.

We take the following from our much esteemed colleague El Eco de Navarro:—"The Club Autonomista at general meeting of the delegates from the different partidos definitely sanctioned the list of candidates for the Senate and Chamber of Deputies. Among the candidates for the first section we notice the name of D. Carlos Davis. The many friends of Mr Davis in this town received the news with much satisfaction and heartfelt enthusiasm. The telegraph wires were busy bearing messages of congratulation and offering the candidate of the people the most deserved support of this district. Mr Davis has rendered signal and distinguished services to the partido Autonomista, and the committee has merely done an act of justice by placing his name on the list of candidates for the Legislature. Mr Davis will undoubtedly make a name for himself in the Chambers, for he is possessed of the qualities and talents requisite for a deputy. The Province will have in Mr Davis an intelligent representative who will dedicate himself heart and soul to forward the interests of the country. D. Carlos Davis has been the candidate of El Eco de Navarro, and his candidature was accepted warmly by the entire people of this town and partido, for amongst us he counts with many influential friends. And not only here, but in Las Heras is he extremely popular, for he has the gift of making friends wherever he goes."

It is our painful duty to announce the death of Mrs. Castellano, wife of Dr Castellano, of Mercedes. The sad event ocurred on Friday afternoon. The funeral, which took place yesterday, was attended by a numerous cortege of sorrowing friends who went to pay a last tribute to the memory of this estimable lady.

We had the pleasure of a visit yesterday from the highly-esteemed Father Foran, who has just returned from a four months' missionary visit to the Falklands, where his flock numbers some 200, English and Scotch, there being very few Irish down there. The Falklands are rapidly advancing in prosperity. Father Foran looks in splendid health, after his travels by sea and land.

Mr Alfeld, Professor of English in the National College of Jujuy, left town yesterday on his return to his post there.

"What, in Virgil's name, induced you to put that wretched Latin pun in to-day's paper? All the schoolboys in town will answer it." Such was our greeting on Thursday morning from a classical subscriber. He was right. We received three hundred answers (all correct) on Thursday and Friday, and it will take a week to get "My man William," etc, out of our poor head, which still rings with the confounded words. Only one answered the pun in Wednesday's issue, which was far the better of the two. We're sick of Latin puns, and would now feel obliged for a few in Greek. Eh! What's this? The devil! (we mean the printer's boy.) Another "My man William!" Shade of the greatest of Williams, defend us! Let us see—

March 22nd.

Dear Sir,

The quotation from Horace ("epistola a stultos," cap. xii.) which appeared in to-day's Standard may be translated as follows:—

My man William ran his head
Right against the mantelpiece.

Reference to this touching passage may be found in Herodotus, Maver and other classical writers.

Yours sincerely,

Nat. College—6th form.

Our latest dates from Panama are to January 8th. There is a shade more news than usual. An enormous dredge has been ordered in the U. States for the canal. Mr Breard, a clerk in the Canal Office, shot himself dead, accidentally, through letting his gun fall. All the small fry republics are just at present in a state of Arcadian peace, although Costa Rica and Nicaragua are merely on bowing terms, and may 'cut' each other at any moment. A new Comet has turned up right over Panama, so much so that the public have to lie on their backs to get a square look at it. It is smaller than the celestial tramp we all went crazy about here last year.

The great event of to-day is the opening of the St Cloud Charity Fair of our French friends at the Elysee Gardens. This annual fete is the most charming of the many held in this city, as the unrivalled taste and ingenuity of the Gallic race give them an undoubted superiority in such matters. The prizes are most beautiful, and can be seen in Burgos's. The Bazaar will be open to-day, to-morrow, on Thursday, and on Sunday next.

The scene is laid at a Spiritualist assembly, and the medium has evoked a departed spirit of the mighty dead. The following conversation then takes place, amidst an excited hush:

"Is the spirit of Epaminondas present?"

(Three affirmative knocks.)

"And do you recognize me, bright visitant from a better clime"

(Three affirmative knocks.)

"Who am I?"

"An infernal ass!" spells out the spirit of Epaminondas.

A curious, but highly significant sign of 'coming events' in France is the fact that the gold coins, "Napoleons," are now by general consent called "Louis d'or," as under the "ancien regime." There is not an original 'Louis' in existence.

We salute our excellent contemporary the Oasis of San Luis, on its 7th anniversary. It is a most useful and ably-managed paper, and may count on further public patronage now that the railway is opening up the province.

A kind volunteer reporter informs us that there is any number of 'returned' letters at the G. P. O. for E Tormey, Annie Thompson, and the Director of the American Farming Association.

We are very glad to hear that Mr Charles Lumb is rapidly recovering from his recent attack of illness, and will soon be about again.

Telegrams from Bolivia state that the Chilian troops are again on the move in several places, as if about to press on the war again. Some of the most influential Chilian papers now advocate a speedy peace in strong terms, as the war has told tremendously on the foreign merchants, and they are heartily sick of it.

Professor: "If you attempt to squeeze any solid body, it will always resist pressure." Class smiles and cities examples of exceptions which prove the rule.

The home papers report an extrordinary case of suicide at Canterbury, where a waiter named Simmonds filled his mouth with gunpowder, put a light to it, and in this way blew his head to pieces.

The new steamer of the Royal Mail line—the Esk—was telegraphed as having left Bahia for Rio and the Plate.

Don't forget the concert in the Florida Gardens to-night. The programme is the best yet.

All the societies in town and the Municipality of Quilmes gave balls last night. Quilmes is the most dancy of all the suburbs, except, perhaps, Belgrano. Flores is not even a circumstance in the "light fantastic toe" line.

PILDORAS

PILLS

For the treatment and rapid cure of all DISEASES OF THE STOMACH and INTESTINES, AILMENTS of the LIVER, DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, COLIC, NAUSEA, DIARRHŒA, CONSTIPATION and want of APPETITE, FULLNESS and pain after eating, MOAKIN and CHRONIC HEADACHE, RHEUMATISM and NEURALGIA, DISEASES of the skin, PERIODICAL female troubles; and besides these, many other diseases which are classed under infinite names, but which arise from one and the same cause—to wit—disarrangement of the organs of Digestion and Assimilation, communicating poor, and indeed impure blood to the system—in this manner producing debility and congestion of all the vital organs. AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS will cure rapidly and radically all these diseases by throwing off all impurities and establishing the equilibrium necessary to complete health.

This Company having purchased all the property, rights, patents, privileges and concessions in the Argentine, Uruguay and Paraguay Republics, formerly the property of the Companies known as the "Pantelephone," and the "Bell Perfeccionado," is prepared to sell or lease telephones or telephone lines or use in any part of the Argentine Republic, the Banda Oriental or Paraguay. It possesses exclusive rights for all of these countries for the Bell and Blake Telephones, known throughout the Plate as the Bell Perfeccionado,
The only instrument used in the United States
And by the United Telephone Company of England and by nearly all the powerful Telephone Exchanges of the world.
The company is now receiving the largest shipments, it is believed, of telephone material ever obtained at one time by any Company existing, including 650 complete sets of telephone instruments, 1000 miles of wire, 40 miles of cable conductor, and switch board and Central Office appliances all of latest and best manufacture.
The Company is not subsidiary to any other, and is under no obligation to purchase its supplies from any particular source.
It proposes to furnish the public of Buenos Aires with the best telephonic instruments obtainable, and the best service practicable.
Thus far, in consequence of the lack of Bell instruments, only four hundred of its nearly one thousand subscribers have been supplied.
The Pan instruments in use by the remainder will now as rapidly as possible be replaced by the Bell and a better service than any heretofore known in Buenos Aires will be the result.
Any information desired will be most cheerfully afforded on application in person, or by letter at the Company's offices 26 and 28 Calle San Martin.

ON 'CHANGE.

March 24th, 1883

Patacon	25.00
Cedulas A	100¼
Cedulas E	86¼
National Bank Shares	103½
National 5 o/o	72½

The resumption of business after the holidays is marked by a rather easier money market, much less pressure for money, and exchange somewhat weaker, caused by one of the private banks sweeping the market clean of bills for the French mail.

In the stock and share market there was a very marked improvement in Cedulas Series E; outsiders bought freely for cash, and the turn in the market seemed so sharp that many who sold "descubierto" for the end of the month turned round and bought freely to-day for that date. The business done in Cedulas was in fact the only important business done at the ring, since National Bank Shares are so much neglected that the total sales of the day but reached 370 shares. Not so Cedulas; the sales amounting to 355,000, all being Series E save a trifle of 35,000 Series A at 100¼. Many holders of Series A are selling out and buying Series E. Gold can only be quoted at par and sovereigns, that were at 2 premium, were sold to-day £20,000 at 1½. We hear that one of our private banks has telegraphed to Europe for sovereigns and Italian gold.

National Bonds 5 o/o are in such steady demand that they say they are bought for European account; 1,000 bought to-day at 72½.

In the Nat. Bank Share market continued dullness; only 20 shares sold cash at 103¼ only 50 for end of month at 103½, and 600 for April, opening at 105½ and closing at 105.

Cedulas E opened cash at 86¼ and shut at 86½. For end of month prices began at 86½ and closed at 86½. For April prices opened at 86¾ and closed at 87, and for May 25,000 bought at 87¼. The stock rules on time very hard, and some say they have received most favorable news from London.

Exchange that on Wednesday was so very upward flattened on Good Friday, one of our private banks having taken largely at 49⅝ and as high as 5.24 and 5.25, but these rates were not sustained. A large business for the French mail was done during the holidays, and the rates to-day were London 49¾ drawers takers 49⅜, Paris 5.21-22.

None of the bills for the Santa Fe loan have as yet been offered in the market, and brokers say that the business spoken of the other day £100,000 taken by a private bank is a "bola".

The sales at the ring were as follows:

Cedulas—
For cash A 35,000 at 100½
For cash E 40,000 at 86½-½
For March 31st E 150,000 at 86½-¼-⅜-½
For April 30th E 105,000 at 86¾-87-86¾-87
For May 31st E 25,000 at 87½
Sales, 355,000

National Bank Shares—
For cash 20 at 103½
For March 31st 50 at 103⅜
For April 30th 500 at 105½-¼-105
Sales, 670

National Bonds, 1881, 5 o/o—
For cash 1,000 at 72½

Although the week's business has been much interrupted by holidays &c. there was a very marked difference between the two Saturdays, this and that of last week. To-day the money pressure was less felt in every circle. We heard of money taken up on Cedulas, and even a large business on National Bank Shares at 10 o/o. The improved tone of the market comes from Montevideo where affairs have brightened and the squeeze is over. All our bank managers, with the exception of Mr. Pollinini, are out of town shooting, and possibly it is owing to their absence that the money market shows improvement. National Government Bills were looked for by discount brokers and reported scarce. The payments for produce were small, although we heard of wool purchases in the barracas during the holidays and much wool exchange passed. It was a light Saturday on 'Change, none of the tables were over-crowded, and at the banks there was a regular movement.

Respecting the great market question of conversion by the Provincial Bank, we learn that a certain representative party of Montevideo, formally enquired of our Minister of Hacienda, who emphatically stated that the law would be carried out to the very letter, but that the Provincial Bank is so very strong that the market will suffer no inconvenience.

The Villarino in her return trip will bring up 700 Indians, men, women and children, prisoners; she will go straight to Martin Garcia where she will land them. Don Dorrego Lopez, of Patagones, has obtained the contract for bringing down all these prisoners from the Limay to Patagones; all his troops of carts and peones are engaged on this important contract.

Messrs. Tornquist and Oscar Bennert, who have arrived in the Toro, were warmly welcomed on 'Change. Mr. Bennert stood on the very summit of the Sierra de la Ventana, some 3,000 feet high; we believe as high as the Peak of Tijuca. Messrs. Warnecken, Mendez Pico and others who formed the party had a most delightful excursion, but they all came up in the Toro, a steamer without the least accommodation, and we regret to say the whole party had to sleep on "recados", hence they rose very early in the morning.

Coal brokers report a sudden rise in the price of coal; price to-day $11 with prospects of going higher; very little on way out, and freights very high.

At afternoon very little done in National Bank Shares or Cedulas; the liquidation room was empty at 4 o'clock; prices ruled the same as at the close of the ring.

The new steamer Camden, from Antwerp, to Messrs. Sharffenorth & Sattler, has arrived The Teniers, from London, will be up to-morrow; she brings 1,300 tons of cargo and 11 passengers. Mails by river steamer to-night.

Mr. Mattew Forrester was warmly welcomed on 'Change to-day and congratulated on his convalescence.

The new steamer Lamport is hourly expected; she belongs to the great Lamport and Holt line.

Telegrams from London, dated Thursday, report close of London wool auction at prices 5 per cent higher than those of last December. In Antwerp B. A. 30 per cent wool 1.60.

The steamer Carmela from Genoa has arrived, and we hear will enter the Boca.

Mr Christophersen, we hear, has been named agent of the new Lavarello Steam Co.; the Europa is his first steamer. Splendid as are Mr Christophersen's offices in this city, his offices in Montevideo surpass them.

The Austrian lugger Istria with a cargo of paving stones has arrived. The Merain with assorted cargo to John Shaw. The Carolina Colombo with coal to the Gas Co. The Alice Roy to Shaw with pine from New Brunswick. The Buda also from New Brunswick to Roberts & Co with pine, and the A. Harton from New York to Drysdale with pine and general cargo.

Three leading wool buyers have gone to Tandil to pass the holidays there; it was rumoured on 'Change that they will inspect the "Piedra Movediza" and if possible move it from its place, but up to closing hour no telegrams had arrived announcing their success.

Mr. Aug. C. Linck will leave to-morrow per steamer Valparaiso and take his residence for some years in Bremen. We cannot let pass this occasion without mentioning the great benefit which the sheepwash tobacco imported by the firm, of which he is the chief, has done to the country, it being pronounced by all the very best cure, and what is the principal thing, being a vegetable matter, does not injure the fibre of the wool, as many other remedies do, causing great complaints from the manufacturers.

At the Plaza Once de Setiembre the following business done:—
116 waggons with produce arrived.
The sales were:—

Parish Balvanera, 27x25 mts., $1,650 m/n.

The contractor for the sleepers on the branch railway now constructing to Santiago del Estero has made some important purchases, and we hear that the fine timber quebracho colorado on the Canepa lands, which were sold at auction in this city over a year ago, are now coming into great request for this railway. Some of those Canepa lands, that were bought at auction at very cheap rates have been resold at a fair profit. The new railway to Santiago del Estero will wake up all the country up there, and these Canepa lands are said to be some of the finest in that province.

Mr. Weldon, the talented Manager of the London and River Plate Bank in Montevideo, is, we regret to say, confined to his house and on crutches; his foot slipped on the marble stairs of his house the other day. President Santos called to visit him last Tuesday, as also most of the principal people of Montevideo. He hopes to be able to go to the Bank next week.

The new Mole extending along the bank of the Riachuelo from the point facing the mouth of the channel up to the Capitania or Resguardo, is really one of the most useful and most respectable of our public works. We believe it is constructed by Mr. Taylor C.E., who merits the very highest praise for its good workmanlike shape and great solidity. This fine solid Mole gives a new and improved appearance to the old sedgy banks of the Riachuelo, and makes the Boca look more European than ever. We compliment Mr. Taylor on his work, and hope he will continue his fine Mole up to the Barracas bridge.

Everyone asks why do not the Montevidean steamers enter and sail from the Boca, it would be such a great convenience to passengers. We believe the reason is the enormous port and dock dues which they would have to pay the Government; surely the Minister of Hacienda ought to make some concession to those steamers running in and out three times a week. In English ports the coastwise steamers only pay ¼ the ordinary port charges, and we might establish the same rule here; it is preposterous to charge the same port dues to the Cosmos as to a Lamport & Holt steamer from Liverpool, or a Lavarello steamer from Italy.

The Villarino cleared from the Boca on Thursday morning, as usual crowded with passengers, cargo and emigrants, every berth in the steamers was taken. Mr. Sanchez, partner in the firm of Roca & Sanchez, goes down to his estancia in Bahia Blanca to put up a windmill and pumps to supply the place with good water; fully 150 emigrants left in her for Bahia Blanca where they will be at once absorbed by the railway. Captain Spurr informs us that he now takes the Villarino up to the railway mole at Bahia Blanca, and the with a plank from the steamer he lands, which is an immense improvement on the old fashioned system of landing down there in a small row boat up a little creek through "cangrejales" of 500 feet depth of soft mud. Bahia Blanca certainly shows the most wondrous signs of progress within the last two years, and people who have property down there and thought they paid dear for it will come out all right. For Patagones and the Rio Negro there were many passengers, chiefly shopkeepers and dealers, all doing well and thriving; the trade with the Rio Negro shows the most extraordinary development. The day will yet come when we shall have three steamers a week plying between this market and the Rio Negro.

The steamer Santa Rosa, or Bahia Blanca, went

Venderemos por cuenta y orden de su propietario el Dr D Felipe Rufino y por completa liquidacion, las haciendas todas del establecimiento 9 de Julio, situado en el Partido de Alvear, a 8½ leguas de la estacion Las Flores Ferro Carril del Sud donde habra carruajes para la concurrencia.

Las ovejas y vacas que ofrecemos, asi como los caballos y yeguas son de clases muy finas y su actual propietario las vende solo por ausentarse del pais.

El remate de las vacas, caballos y yeguas se hara en lotes al gusto de los señores interesados y el de las ovejas sera como de costumbre, por majadas completas con sus dotaciones de riquisimos padres.

Llamamos la atencion de los Señores criadores muy particularmente sobre las vacas—pues garantimos que no se han vendido novillos. Pedimos a los señores interesados inspeccionen las haciendas, pues aseguramos un magnifico estado.

Tambien venderemos 20 bueyes muy mansos, 30 vacas lecheras, arados, maquinas de cortar pasto, rastrillos y demas utiles del Establecimiento.

Para ver los animales y el campo debe tomarse el Ferro Carril del Sud hasta la estacion Las Flores, habiendose el resto del viaje en carruaje. La Estancia 9 de Julio dista solo 8½ leguas de la estacion.

Importante Nota

Estamos autorizados para escuchar ofertas sobre el arriendo del Establecimiento compuesto de 6 leguas de rico campo.

La Estancia que se ofrece se llama 9 de Julio dista solo 3½ del pueblo del Saladillo y 8 de la estacion Las Flores, Ferro Carril del Sud. La distancia que hay de la ciudad es solo de 36 leguas y podra dentro de un mes estar a solo 3 leguas del Ferro Carril del Oeste (nueva via del Saladillo).

Tiene la estancia un esplendido edificio lleno de comodidades 30 puestos—3 costados del campo alambrados; 4 magnificas aguadas. El arroyo Las Flores en una cabecera. El San Miguel en el centro y las lagunas La Pastora y Espadaña.

El contrato se hara por 7 años.

Las condiciones particulares del negocio se estipularan despues de oidas las ofertas.

Por cualquier otro dato a nuestra casa, San Martin 51.

El area de campo arriba indicado situado en la Provincia de Cordoba en el Rio Cuarto, pedania de Teyna y Peñas, campo de primer orden, sin medano, ni sierra, cubierto de pastos con una poblacion, existiendo alli un rodeo de vacas que servira para mostrar la calidad de la hacienda, nacidas en esos mismos campos, un pozo con abundante agua, por las fuertes vertientes que tiene.

Esta campo queda en el angulo que forman los ferro-carriles Central Argentino y Andino, y dista de las estaciones Chañaresde la primera lineas y Velez Sarsfield de la segunda, lindando con Ferreira, Aramburu etc.

Creemos escusado demostrar las ventajas que ofrece un campo en estas condiciones y que puede comprarse por un precio tan bajo como el que se ha ajado para la venta, que son dos mil quinientos ps. fuertes la legua cuadrada.

IS THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.

CAUTION—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. P. Wood stated that Dr J. Collis Browne was undoubtedly the inventor of Chlorodyne; that the story of the defendant, Freeman, being the inventor was deliberately untrue, which he regretted had been sworn to. Eminent hospital physicians of London stated that Dr. J. Collis Browne was the discoverer of Chlorodyne; that they prescribe it largely, and mean no other than Dr Browne's—See Times, July 12th 1864.

The Public, therefore, are cautioned against using any other than

Dr J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne.

REMEDIAL USES AND ACTION.

This invaluable remedy produces quiet, refreshing sleep, relieves pain, calms the system, restores the deranged functions, and stimulates health action of the secretions of the body, without creating any of those unpleasant results attending the use of opium. Old and young may take it all hours and times when requisite. Thousands of persons testify to its marvellous good effects and wonderful cures, while medical men extol its virtues most extensively.

CHLORODYNE is admitted by the profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered.

CHLORODYNE is the best remedy known for coughs, consumption, bronchitis, asthma.

CHLORODYNE effectually checks and arrests too often fatal diseases Diphtheria Fever, Crup, Ague.

CHLORODYNE acts like a charming Diarrhoea, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery.

CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy, Hysteria, Palpitation and Spasms.

CHLORODYNE is the only palliative in Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Cancer, Toothache, Meningitis, &c.

From Symes & Co., Pharmaceutical Chemists, Medical Hall, Simla, Jan. 5th 1880. To J. T. Davenport, Esq., 33, Great Russell Street, Bloomsbury, London—"Dear Sir, we embrace this opportunity of congratulating you upon the wide-spread reputation this justly-esteemed medicine, DR COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE, has earned for itself, not only in Hindostan, but all over the East. As a remedy of general utility, we much question whether a better is imported into the country, and we shall be glad to hear of its finding a place in every Anglo-Indian home. The other brands, we are happy to say, are now relegated to the native bazaars, and, judging from their sale, we fancy their sojourn there will be but evanescent. We could multiply instances ad infinitum of the extraordinary efficacy of DR. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE in Diarrhœa, and Dysentery, Spasms, Cramps, Neuralgia, the Vomiting of Pregnancy, and as a general sedative, that have occurred under our personal observation during many years. In Choleratic Diarrhœa, and even in the more terrible forms of Cholera itself, we have witnessed its surprisingly controlling power. We have never used any other form of this medicine than Collis Browne's, from a firm conviction that it is decidedly the best, and also from a sense of duty we owe to the profession and the public, as we are of opinion that the substitution of any other than Collis Browne's is a "deliberate breach of faith on the part of the chemist to prescriber and patient alike." We are, Sir, faithfully yours, Symes & Co., Members of the Pharm. Society of Great Britain, His Excellency the Viceroy's Chemists."

Extract from the General Board of Health, London, as to its efficacy in Cholera—"So strongly are we convinced of the immense value of this remedy that we cannot too forcibly urge the necessity of adopting it in all classes."

CAUTION—None genuine without the words 'Dr J. Collis Browne' on the Government Stamp. Overwhelming medical testimony accompanies each bottle.
